DESIGN MANIFESTO

Here are my five principles for creating your perfect home.

GENEROSITY

Your home is a gift. I'm designing with you in mind. But, of course, I couldn't design something that I don't love for myself.

INTEGRITY

From conception to creation, preserving the integrity of an idea is central to great design. Each material is chosen with care and each element is designed with great respect — for your home, and for you. Above all, design should be honest.

ORIGINALITY

Some claim we live in a "copy paste" era; but, that's no excuse not to have original ideas. Each element in your home is fresh and never-been-done before, combined with a great respect for the work of architects and designers across history. Great design transcends time by honoring it. You can't look forward without taking the time to look back and see whose footsteps you're following in.

INDEPENDENCE

Being independent has always been very important to me, which is why I like boxes, systems, and set things that are self-sufficient. And that's what I love about the studio set: It's a jewel box filled with only the essentials — beautiful basics for a self-sufficient home.

SIMPLICITY

My design ethos is refined and reduced, but not minimalistic. There is a tribute to honest materiality and a deep reverence for light and space. Your home is like a single, simple sentence.

THE STUDIO SETS

A CURATED HOME

A curation of home essentials selected by Clémande Burgevin Blachman

"I've always had a fantasy of living in a hotel, a place fully set up, efficient, and beautiful. But a hotel is not a home. I would miss the pleasure of cooking, of picking a book from my library, of changing flowers.

I've moved a lot so it's been my dream to find everything in one place: clever, aesthetically pleasant products to help me build a home.

I made this dream come true with The Studio Sets. I only curated the essentials, each unit is like a carefully curated selection with everything you could need because to feel at home you need practical, magical, and beautiful things."

"Clever, aesthetically pleasant products to help me build a home."

LIVING

Keeping warm with Pendleton blankets

These wool blankets are made in America and the craft and quality is absolutely amazing.

Everywhere pillows from Hay

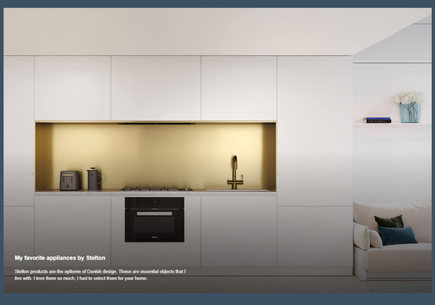

These pillows epitomize Danish design today. I love how they mix materials; plus, they're so comfortable!

Elegant picture frames from Markus

Even today, I still think a real home needs real photos. These picture frames from Markus make every photo look like a piece of art. After all, what two things are more luxurious and more classic than Murano glass and gold?

THE KITCHEN

My favorite appliances by Stelton

Stelton products are the epitome of Danish design. These are essential objects that I live with. I love them so much, I had to select them for your home.

Teapots and glasses from Kinto

Kinto's drinkware exhibits everything I look for when I pick products for my own home: simplicity, craftsmanship, and premium materials.

Wooden placemats from Kinto

Japanese design, like these placemats from Kinto, fits so well with Scandinavian aesthetics — they both influenced each other so much!

Beautiful kitchen vases from Iittala

This vase is a design icon Alvar Aalto designed it 1936 and it still looks like it could've just been conceived yesterday. Plus I like their secret meaning: they're designed to look like the beautiful lakes of Finland.

Everyday heirloom china by Royal Copenhagen

Royal Copenhagen is a classic. Their china is elegant, understated, and filled with heritage. It's so versatile, you can either use it every day, or to entertain guests. Their coffee mug is also the most clever object there is — and my own personal favorite.

Only the best: Le Creuset

Maybe it's because I'm French, but I don't think any kitchen is complete without a Le Creuset cocotte. It's practically a national landmark!

Bowls in perfect proportions by Pieter Stockmans

Designed in the early 1960s, these bowls are masterpieces. Even 40 years later, they're still the most beautiful and versatile out there. The proportions are perfect.

BED & BATH

A space-saving murphy bed from Ciel

I thought murphy beds didn't exist anymore but I rediscovered them! They're perfect because they're efficient and the beds from Italian manufacturer Ciel are the absolute best.

Skincare refresh from Susanne Kaufmann

Susanne Kaufmann's products are pure, organic, smell divine, and best of all: they deliver amazing results.

A 21st-century toothbrush by Quip

I love Quip. They took something so mundane but so necessary — a toothbrush — and made it truly beautiful.

Iconic flip-flop fashion by Havaianas

You need sandals to go to the pool in your pool robe, and what's better than classic Havaianas?
